Rev. 9/2022

Best Practices for Conflict De-Escalation

For Use in the Polling Place

When faced with a difficult circumstance, remember to stay...

Consider if the situation is targeted (the person came to the polling place planning to be disruptive) or reactionary (the person was upset by something in the polling place). Consider your options. Offer choices and optimism. Lean on your training to offer solutions, provide information, or redirect their concerns to an alternate resource. Most importantly, be positive!

Act calm even if you're not. If you speak evenly and at a lower volume, they have to stop yelling to hear you. Don't be afraid to use silence. Avoid phrases like, "Calm down!", "You're wrong.", or "Because I said so."

Listen and empathize. The most impactful way to positively de-escalate a situation is to listen carefully, genuinely try to understand the problem, and demonstrate empathy. Don't take it personally. Their concern is not with you. It may be with the process, equipment, or even something unrelated to elections.

Mind your body language and give space. Show active listening with eye contact, nodding your head, and using non-verbal but appropriate reactions to what they're saying.

☎ Call for help. The safety of the voters and poll workers in your location is ultimately up to you. You must decide if the situation can be de-escalated or if you should reach out for help. Don't hesitate to call the call center for additional assistance. You can always put the person on the phone with the call center representative, too.
Call Center (512) 854-4783

! If there is any threat of harm or physical disturbance, do not hesitate to call 911 for law enforcement response.

Judging the Situation

Some situations may be handled by any poll worker, but there are some situations that should be handled by the Deputy/Judge or may even require additional assistance.

	Disruptive Behavior: Seek Additional Help
Examples:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Person makes threats toward staff or others in the polling places. • Person will not cease a violation of the Election Code.
	Agitated Person: Polling Location Deputy/Judge
Examples:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Voter does not like what is on their ballot. • Voter is disputing information from poll workers.
	Person with Questions: Any Poll Worker
Examples:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Voter has questions about the voting process.

For more information on Emergency Procedures in the Polling Place, see page 7 of your Poll Worker Training Manual.

You can always call the Call Center
